UK Lawyer Salaries: What to Expect at Every Career Stage

Written by Louise Donnery

For aspiring solicitors, barristers, and legal professionals, understanding UK lawyer salaries is essential for career planning. Pay varies widely based on experience, specialisation, firm type, and location, making salary transparency crucial for informed decision-making. This guide breaks down earnings across different roles—solicitors, barristers, in-house counsel, and public-sector lawyers—shedding light on how various factors influence legal salaries in the UK.

If you're looking to optimise your legal practice for better financial management and efficiency, tools like Clio can help you simplify operations, increase billable hours, and focus on what matters most—your clients and career growth.

How much do lawyers make in the UK?

Lawyer salaries in the UK vary widely based on experience, firm type, and specialisation. Newly qualified solicitors earn between £40,000 – £150,000, while partners can make six to seven figures. Barristers' earnings range from £50,000 to £200,000+, depending on their expertise.

How much do solicitors earn in the UK?

Solicitors' salaries in the UK vary significantly depending on experience, practice area, and firm type.

Salary by experience level

- Junior solicitors (NQ – 3 years PQE): £40,000 – £60,000 per year, depending on firm and location.
- Mid-level solicitors (3 – 7 years PQE): £60,000 – £100,000 annually.
- Senior solicitors (7+ years PQE): £100,000 – £150,000+.
- Partners: Can earn six to seven figures, particularly in Magic Circle and US-based firms.

Salary by firm type

Corporate & Commercial Law Firms:

- Magic Circle & US Firms: Big Law firms pay the highest salaries, often exceeding £150,000 for newly qualified solicitors.
- Mid-tier Firms: Typically offer between £40,000 – £80,000.

High-street & Legal Aid firms:

- Specialising in areas like criminal, family, and immigration law, salaries range from £30,000 – £60,000.

Regional vs London salaries

London-based firms, especially Magic Circle and US firms, offer significantly higher salaries.

- Magic Circle (London): Up to £150,000 for newly qualified solicitors.
- Regional Firms: NQ (newly qualified) salaries typically range between £40,000 – £70,000.

Salaries can vary based on bonuses, billable hours, and firm profitability.

Thinking of taking control of your legal career? Becoming a consultant lawyer can offer greater flexibility and earning potential. Learn more in our blog: The Rise of the Consultant Lawyer: Why 33% of Lawyers Could Join the Model by 2026

Practice area salary comparisons

- Corporate law: Offers some of the highest salaries, with experienced solicitors earning £150,000+.
- Criminal law: Typically pays £30,000 – £60,000, particularly in legal aid work.
- Family law: Similar to criminal law, with earnings typically between £30,000 – £60,000.
- Employment law: Salaries vary but are generally lower than corporate law, typically £40,000 – £80,000.
- Property & conveyancing law: Can be competitive, especially in commercial property, with salaries ranging from £50,000 – £100,000.

How much do barristers earn in the UK?

Barristers' earnings can fluctuate significantly based on experience, specialisation, and whether they are self-employed or salaried.

- Pupil barristers: The minimum pupillage award is £23,078 in London and £21,060 outside London, though some chambers offer up to £85,000.
- Junior barristers: Can earn anywhere from £50,000 – £100,000 per year.
- Senior barristers (King's Counsel, KCs): Earnings can exceed £200,000, depending on their specialisation.

Self-employed vs. employed barristers

- Self-Employed barristers: Earnings are highly variable and depend on caseload and client base.
- Employed barristers: Enjoy more stable salaries but may earn less overall than self-employed counterparts.

Income disparities across specialisms

- Criminal barristers: Those with private clients can earn more than those relying on legal aid.
- Commercial barristers: Involved in high-value disputes, they often earn higher fees.
- Family and personal injury barristers: Generally earn less than commercial barristers.

Legal salaries across different sectors

Salaries also vary depending on whether a lawyer works in private practice, in-house, or the public sector.

- In-house lawyers: Competitive salaries, particularly in corporate and financial services, typically ranging from £60,000 – £120,000.
- Legal Aid lawyers: Often earn £30,000 – £60,000, particularly in criminal, family, and immigration law.
- Public sector lawyers: Salaries vary but typically fall between £40,000 – £80,000.

How lawyers can increase their earnings

To maximise earning potential, legal professionals can:

- Specialise in high-value legal areas– Corporate law, IP law, and financial regulation typically offer higher salaries.
- Move to a top-tier firm– Magic Circle and US-based firms pay significantly more than mid-sized firms.
- Build a strong reputation & client base– A well-established reputation can lead to higher fees and demand.
- Explore alternative legal careers– Legal consulting, compliance, and legal tech roles often provide competitive salaries.
- Use technology to simplify work– Tools like Clio can increase billable hours, reduce admin time, and improve efficiency.

Understanding UK lawyer salaries

Legal salaries in the UK vary widely depending on experience, firm type, location, and specialisation. If you're planning your legal career, it's crucial to stay informed about salary trends and industry shifts.

For more insights on legal career development, salary trends, and law firm management, sign up for our newsletter and stay ahead in your legal career.

Lawyer salary FAQs

How much do corporate lawyers make?

Corporate lawyers, especially those in Magic Circle and USA-based firms, can earn significantly high salaries, often exceeding £150,000 annually.

How much do criminal lawyers make?

Criminal lawyers generally earn lower salaries than corporate lawyers, typically ranging from £30,000 to £60,000.

How much do family lawyers make in the UK?

Family lawyers earn lower salaries than corporate lawyers, often between £30,000 and £60,000.

How much do employment lawyers make in the UK?

Employment lawyers' salaries vary but are generally lower than corporate law, often between £40,000 and £80,000.

How do public sector salaries compare to private practice?

Public sector lawyers generally earn less than those in private practice. For example, local government solicitors may earn between £40,000 and £50,000, while private practice solicitors can earn significantly more, especially in top-tier firms.

About Clio

Clio is the global leader in legal AI, powering legal work across the profession, from law firms of every size to corporate legal teams, government agencies, and courts. Its Intelligent Legal Work Platform unites the business and practice of law, connecting the people, information, and processes behind legal work. Clio's AI brings the context together with legal sources drawn from Clio Library, a growing collection of more than one billion legal documents. Over 400,000 legal professionals in more than 130 countries rely on Clio to run their legal world. Learn more at www.clio.com.